

An investment approach that makes all the difference

Our history

Hyperion Asset Management was founded in 1996 to grow the wealth of high net worth individuals and secure their family's futures. Since then, we've expanded our very selective investment approach to empower other investors to achieve their goals – including institutions and financial advisers – to become the wholesale investment manager we are today.

Why Hyperion?

Unlike many other investment managers who follow a diversification approach, we hand-pick only a certain number of share investments that we really believe in. Taking a long-term view, we then wait for their true value to be realised over time.

This concentrated, high conviction approach is not for everyone. But over the years, it's been proven to deliver superior returns for our investors while helping them weather some of the most challenging equities markets ever.

A team that's as invested as you are

Every person on our investment team has decades of experience in rigorous investment selection and management. As well as having a deep understanding of the investment process and taking an independent view about which shares represent the best opportunities, we also have a very client-centric perspective. In fact, every one of our team members invests in the same funds as our clients, so we're with you all the way.

Three funds designed for exceptional long-term returns

Hyperion's portfolios are comprised of Australian and global shares that we believe offer the highest appreciation potential over the next five to ten years. Our three funds are:

Hyperion Global Growth Companies Fund – which invests in high quality growth companies in the US, Europe, Asia and Australia and is open to all investors.
